Chewang was born to a poor peasant family in Tungri. The local people make a living from raising animals and agriculture. Winter is very harsh with heavy snow falls. The nunneries in the area help the local villagers in their daily lives. There are three children in the family and the parents are unable to provide for their education. Chewang was very happy to be admitted in the TCV School. His best subject is Tibetan and he wants to become a Tibetan teacher. He likes reading and drawing.
